A REFERENCE FOR DESIGNERS

What's inside.

Read this before you draw, write, photograph, or print anything carrying the Bezrah name. It defines who we are, how we look, and the lines we will not cross. Treat it as the brief behind every brief.

WHO WE ARE

From a seed, a whole table.

"Bezrah" — بذرة — is the Arabic word for seed. Everything we make begins there: a single seed, the soil it knew, the hands that picked it, the jar or pack it ends in.

We are a Mediterranean food house exporting frozen vegetables, frozen prepared foods, and traditional pickles (mekhalal, mouneh) to households and food-service kitchens across the United States, the European Union, and Latin America. Our shelves sit between the commodity freezer aisle and the specialty deli. We are not the cheapest. We are not boutique. We are the dependable, beautiful middle — heritage food made to professional export standard.

BRAND PILLARS

Origin

Traceable. We say where the seed came from, and we say it in Arabic on the label.

Craft

Recipes from a region, not a focus group. Frozen and pickled the way a grandmother would, at industrial scale.

Reach

Built for the export container and the long shelf. Cold chain, certifications, multi-language packaging.

Restraint

Quiet design. Confident green. No shouting on the freezer door.

WHERE WE SELL

Three shelves, three conversations.

We export into three very different retail cultures. The identity must read the same in all of them, but tilt slightly in each. This page exists so designers don't accidentally make us look like the wrong neighbor.

United States

ETHNIC + MEDITERRANEAN AISLE

Shelf neighbors: Ziyad, Cedar's, Sadaf, Mediterranean Organic, Trader Joe's Mediterranean line, Sabra. Buyers expect bilingual packaging (English first, Arabic accent), USDA-ready iconography, kosher/halal marks, allergen clarity. Tilt: a little more editorial, a little more "specialty," because the shopper is paying a premium for authenticity.

European Union

FROZEN + WORLD FOODS

Shelf neighbors: Bonduelle, Findus, Iglo, plus Turkish and Levantine specialty importers in Germany, France, the Netherlands. Buyers expect EU nutrition label compliance (FIC), Nutri-Score where applicable, multi-language back panel, recyclable packaging callouts. Tilt: cleaner, calmer, more "design-led" — closer to a Scandinavian frozen brand than a souk.

Latin America

IMPORTED DELICATESSEN

Shelf neighbors: La Costeña, Goya (in the imports section), local Arab-Latino brands in Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Mexico — countries with deep Levantine diaspora. Spanish-Portuguese back panel essential. Tilt: warmer, slightly more decorative, leans into the shared Arab heritage with the region's Levantine communities.

~$210B

GLOBAL FROZEN VEG + PREPARED FOOD MARKET

Steady growth driven by convenience, home cooking, and the slow normalization of frozen as "fresh-frozen" rather than "second-best." Pickled/preserved category adds a further specialty premium.

DISTINCT REGULATORY REGIMES

FDA (US) · EU FIC 1169/2011 + national rules · MERCOSUR + per-country labelling in LATAM. Every artwork must be built to satisfy the strictest of the three on a per-market SKU.

premium-middle

OUR SHELF POSITION

Priced above the commodity frozen aisle, below the chef-driven specialty boutique. Design must signal "craft" without signaling "luxury tax."

THE MARK

One seedling, two scripts.

The Bezrah mark is a single composition: the Arabic word بذرة as the primary form, with a young seedling growing out of the dotless د, and the Latin transliteration set beneath in a refined serif. The Arabic and the Latin are not alternates — they appear together as one lockup. Never separate them in primary use.

PRIMARY · ON FOREST

First-choice expression. Use on packaging, advertising, and digital surfaces wherever possible.

INVERTED · ON CREAM

For light backgrounds — interior brochure spreads, neutral packaging panels, white-out promotional environments.

PROTECT THE MARK

Give it room.

Minimum clear space on all sides equals the height of the letter B in the BEZRAH wordmark. Nothing — type, image, edge of a package, another logo — may enter that margin.

Minimum size: 22 mm wide in print, 90 px wide on screen. Below that, drop the Arabic-Latin lockup and use the seedling mark alone (supplied as a separate asset).

PALETTE

A field, a seedling, and the bowl beneath.

Forest dominates everything — at least 60% of any surface should be Bezrah Forest. Leaf and Spring are accents, used in highlights, illustration, and small type. Cream is the only "light" the brand uses: never pure white. The earth tones (Terracotta and Saffron) appear only on product-category accents — pickles, prepared dishes — never on the master brand layer.

A note on accessibility: Bezrah Forest on Cream and Cream on Bezrah Forest both clear WCAG AA for body text. Spring on Forest is decorative-only and should not be used for type smaller than 14 pt. Never set body copy in Saffron or Terracotta over Cream — the contrast fails.

THE VOICE ON PAPER

Use Inter for everything that has to be read carefully and quickly: ingredients lists, nutritional panels, regulatory copy, country-of-origin statements, e-commerce body, web UI, presentation footnotes. It is invisible by design, which is exactly what an export label needs. Set between 9 pt (minimum legal) and 16 pt (web body). Avoid weights above 600 in body settings.

All three families are open-source and free for commercial export use, which keeps licensing simple across packaging plants in three regions. If a specific market requires a paid alternative (Cyrillic Cormorant variant, for example), substitute with EB Garamond for Latin and Lateef for Arabic. Do not introduce a fourth family without sign-off.

HOW WE SOUND

Quiet, specific, generous.

Bezrah does not shout. It tells you which village the cucumbers came from, how long the brine took, and what to serve it with — and then steps out of the kitchen. The voice is the voice of someone who knows the food well enough to be brief about it.

WE SOUND LIKE	NOT LIKE
Picked in Beheira. Brined for six weeks. Sliced for sandwiches.	Authentic farm-fresh artisanal pickles bursting with Mediterranean flavor!
Frozen within four hours of harvest. Nothing else added.	Locked in at peak freshness using our proprietary IQF process!
Mezze. Or a side. Or breakfast — we're not strict about it.	Versatile and family-friendly — perfect for every occasion!

SENTENCE SHAPE

Short. Declarative. One idea per line. Fragments are fine. We trust the reader to fill in the rest of the sentence.

VOCABULARY

Plain English (or Spanish, French, Arabic, etc.). Avoid food-marketing clichés: "artisanal," "bursting," "explosion," "indulgent," "kissed by the sun."

PUNCTUATION

Em-dashes and full stops. Never exclamation marks on packaging. Never an ellipsis except in recipe instructions.

WHAT THE CAMERA SEES

Soft light, real hands.

Photography for Bezrah is documentary, not commercial. North-window light, no harsh fill. The hand of a cook in frame more often than a styled flat-lay. Earth tones, deep shadows, generous negative space. We never use frozen-food beauty shots with steam coming off a bowl. Below: six moods to brief photographers and shoot producers against.

ALWAYS

Natural light · matte finish · visible texture (a chip in the bowl, a wrinkled cloth) · food at room temperature, not "perfect" · negative space on at least one side · low to mid eye line.

NEVER

Studio strobes · ring lights · plastic glycerin glaze on vegetables · overhead "flat-lay TikTok" composition · models smiling at camera · pristine cutting boards · steam plumes.

IN THE WORLD

A system, not a sticker.

The identity is built to extend across packaging tiers (master brand, frozen line, pickles line), trade collateral (sell sheets, distributor decks), and digital surfaces (web, marketplace tiles, social). These are sketches of intent, not finals. Use them to test whether a new application "feels Bezrah" before producing it.
